

Introduction

In this chapter we will recall the difference between an institutional and a retail investor and the advantages that an institutional investor has over retail investors. In the last section, we will figure out ways to overcome our shortcomings as retail investors, in a very systematic manner.