

We have marked wherever the A/D indicator crosses the zero line. This means that the volume has shifted between the bearish candles and bullish candles. Hence, it should boost the analyst's confidence to take trades accordingly. These should not be used as indicators. This is another way to use A/D indicator in our trading system.