

We can change the length of the momentum oscillator as per our strategy. A shorter momentum will result in a lot of false signals.

This is because it changes too quickly and hence it does not produce any quality signals despite a trending asset price.