

We see that MFI enters the oversold zone and stayed there for a while. So, like RSI, these do not generate any signals about when to enter and exit. They can enter oversold and stay there for a while. As a result, we will start tracking an asset when they enter the oversold zone. We will use another indicator to enter and exit the asset.