

We see that wedges can again be of three types –symmetric, ascending and descending. We can enter a trade based on the breakout on either of the sides. However, we will prefer a bullish breakout for an ascending wedge and a bearish breakout for a descending wedge. We are indifferent in the case of the symmetric wedge.