

Source - Trading View

This is yet another sideways channel chart pattern. The price movement is contained within the channel range. A bearish breakout can be seen in October. However, this turned out to be a false signal. We would have incurred a small loss here. The asset price comes back within the channel. The bullish breakout in December is something we will enter a trade on. If this holds up or is a false move, we will get to know going ahead.