

04

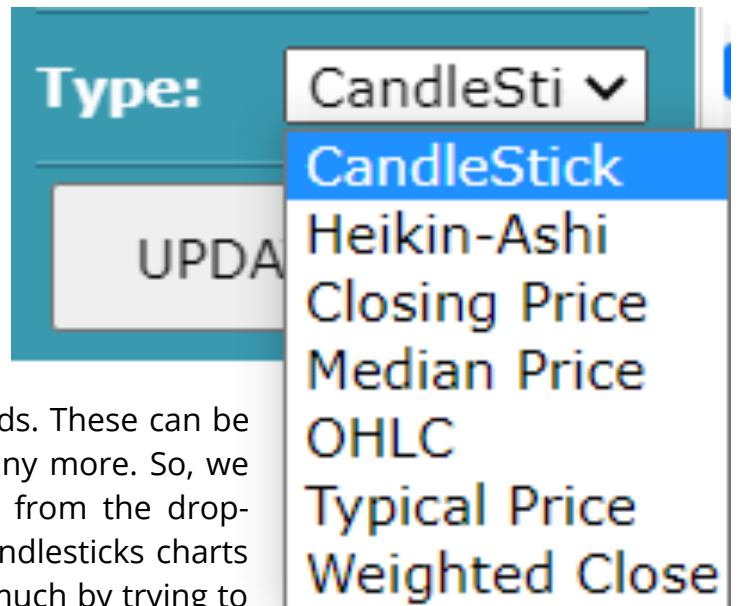

RANGE

We saw earlier that each bar denotes a certain time frame. It denotes price change and volume in that particular time frame – it can be as low as one minute and as high as one year. We can change this bar time duration based on our strategies. We will use a few minutes for intraday and short term trading and day and weekly bars to make longer-term trade decisions.

05

TYPE OF CHART

We saw that the charts can be of multiple kinds. These can be candlesticks, Heiken Ashi, line graphs and many more. So, we can select the kind of chart we would need from the drop-down here. We will mostly be dealing with candlesticks charts and line charts. We will not complicate it too much by trying to use all kinds of charts.