1. This is three black crows formation and the close of each candle is lower than the previous close. The bears have great control over the market here.
2. This is again three black crows. We see that the close is lower than the previous one and also there is a gap down. This shows a bear grip over the market.

Also, it is evident that initiating a new trade following these is a risky proposition as the bears might have exhausted themselves and the trend might see a strong reversal.
