

▲ A WINDOW THROUGH TIME The insects found in amber prove that the insects we see today date back millions of years. Some amber fossils are more than 100 million years old!

◀ GOLDEN GLOW Amber is a hardened, fossilized material that forms from pine tree resin. Pine trees produce resin from wounds in the trunk. The resin flows, but as it dries it hardens to seal a cut in the tree's trunk.