7 Come to a standing position with your feet wider than hip-width apart and your toes facing outward. Lift the groin muscles toward the head, inhale, and lower your hips. Bring your hands to the thighs, take some of your weight into them, and check that your toes are in line with your knees.

8 Inhale, press backward on one hand on the inside of the knee, twisting that shoulder down. Look up and out in the opposite direction. Stay for 2 breath cycles, then exhale and bring the shoulders back to center. Come up, shake your legs a little, and repeat on the other side.
