On the beach Mrs Sherwin of New York wore an all-white outfit while on holiday at the American resort of Palm Beach. Hip-length tunic sweaters were usually worn with matching or contrasting belts, often fastened to one side.

1924

Graduated stripes The explorer Violet Cressy-Marcks could scarcely be more fashionable. She wears a simple hip-length, V-neck sweater with a short, full skirt, accessorized with a belt, long necklace, and clutch bag.

Zigzag The simple shape of this knitted ensemble shows off its dynamic striped design in coloured wool. The button-front fastenings on both garments provide an easy-fitting, versatile outfit.

1928

Cardigan suits These ladies wear fashionable knitted jersey ensembles by Wilson's of London, inspired by the casual chic of leading designers Chanel and Patou. Long cardigans are layered over simple sweaters, teamed with pleated jersey skirts.

1929

Simplicity This deceptively simple, British going-away outfit has geometric seams to create a pattern, pleated side panels in the skirt that allow movement but keep the straight line, and a collar facing that echoes the V-neck insert.

KNITTED WEAR

The "knitted wear" available from Gorrings, the London department store, in 1924 was declared "suitable for the smartest occasions". All the styles incorporate a low waist and are patterned, some models reflecting the vogue for ornamentation based on Eastern European traditional dress. While the top left model is wearing a patterned cardigan for golf, the other styles were clearly suitable for more than just sportswear.
