

▲ PTRD ANTITANK RIFLE

Date 1941

Origin Soviet Union

Barrel 4ft (1.23m)

Caliber 14.5mm

Armor penetration 1.3–1.5in (35–40mm) at 110 yards (100m)

The PTRD was a more complicated weapon than it appeared. It had a barrel that recoiled into the receiver and unlocked the bolt in the process. The bolt was held back when the barrel returned to its original position, opening the breech and ejecting the spent round. A fresh round was then introduced by the loader and the bolt closed by hand.

▼ PIAT

Date 1942

Origin UK

Length 3ft (0.99m)

Caliber 89mm

Armor penetration 3in (75mm) at 120 yards (110m)

The PIAT (Projector, Infantry, Antitank), like the Sten (see p.208), was a wartime expedient design that put function before form. It was actually a special mortar that fired a bomb with a shaped-charge warhead.

▲ M1A1 BAZOOKA

Date 1942

Origin US

Length 4½ft (1.37m)

Caliber 60mm

Armor penetration 4¾in (120mm) at 150 yards (138m)

The Bazooka was essentially a tube that launched a solid-fuel rocket with a shaped-charge warhead. It was operated by two men—one who fired and one who loaded.
