

KYRGYZ HUNTING PARTY

In Kyrgyzstan, the nobility used matchlock guns for hunting. These arms were used widely in Central Asia well into the 20th century. Some guns, such as the one seen on the far right of this illustration from 1830, had a forked rest below the muzzle to assist aiming.

